

COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT OPPORTUNITY!

Proviso East High School Two-Day Health Fair

TUESDAY/WEDNESDAY MARCH 27-28, 2018

Each spring, the Loyola University School-Based Health Center (SBHC)* at Proviso East High School holds a two-day health fair that all PEHS students attend. Loyola students and community organizations create and staff health topic booths.

This health fair provides a great opportunity for health care professionals and community service providers to interact with and educate high school students about living healthy lives.

PLUS, IT'S A LOT OF FUN!

Loyola University Chicago School of Nursing operates a School-Based Health Center (SBHC) at Proviso East High School. Faculty and students from the School of Nursing, Stritch School of Medicine, Social Work, and Public Health collaborate to provide holistic care for high school students. For more information about the SBHC, go to: <http://www.loyolasbhc.org/>*

INFORMATION:

WHAT: Proviso East High School Annual Student Health Fair

WHO: Health care professionals and community service providers

WHERE: Proviso East High School, 807 South 1st Ave, Maywood, IL

WHEN: March 27 and 28 from 7:30am - 3:30pm

HOW: Contact Addie Van Zwoil, avanzwo@luc.edu to express your interest in attending the health fair.

A commitment must be made to completely staff the booth for at least one of the two days of the health fair.

WHY: Why not? Make a difference in the lives of youth using your knowledge, creativity, and communication skills. When else would you have an opportunity to interact meaningfully with almost 800 teenagers in one day? Whew!
